

Risk Taking Form

About risk taking involving Clients of {org.name}

All Clients have the right to make decisions in relation to participating in activities, which may involve a degree of risk. Risk taking is a normal part of everyday life and Clients should not be unnecessarily deprived of this right. Quality of life, independence and the balance of safety and enjoyable life experiences are fostered at {org.name}.

This is provided the client is assessed as being mentally and physically able to do so and they are provided with additional support reasonably required by them to understand the benefits and risks of the options under consideration in consultation with {org.name} and their support network.

Clients, who are able to make their own decisions, may do so provided they do not threaten the safety of other Clients or staff or deprive other Clients of their rights. A Client who makes a decision to participate in activities which may involve risk taking behaviour, must be willing to accept that they need to comply with certain responsibilities associated with taking the risk. This includes obtaining their health practitioner's consent for support of this activity, notifying their family, guardian or support network that they intend to do the activity and notifying {org.name}.

If {org.name} considers there are significant risks of injury should the Client proceed, {org.name} will document such activities accordingly in Progress Notes and ensure this Risk Taking Form is completed. If the Client, and/or their representative(s), decides to act against the advice of {org.name}, then that decision and the recommendations are to be documented, signed and dated (also in this Risk Taking Form).

Where possible the signature of the Client or their representative should be obtained.

Any incident or accident involving a Client as a result of a decision taken by a Client in connection with a decision involving material risk, should be documented in accordance with our Incident Management and Reporting Policy and in Progress Notes.

A significant incident i.e. any incident which results in an injury to a Client which requires medical intervention must be reported to {org.name} as soon as possible.

{org.name} and I have discussed the risks of undertaking the following activities:

{org.name} Risk Decision Tool

Use this simple guide to help you discuss risk with Clients and/or family and to objectively help them consider options and alternatives. The aim is to reach an agreement for what will happen, not to persuade Clients that our solution is the only one.

DEFINE the risk – What is the issue of concern? Who is it a concern to or for? What does the Client (or family) want? How do they view the risk? Is it a risk or just something different to the norm?

UNDERSTAND the risk – Why does the Client want to take the risk? Establish why each person (Client, family, staff) have their view on the risk. What exactly are people worried about (Client, family, staff etc)? What is the degree of risk e.g. from low to life threatening?

PROBLEM solve – Brainstorm ('Blue sky think') and document all possible solutions and ideas around the risk. Be open to new ideas, not just 'what we usually do.' Discuss and document any options and ideas that may be solutions. Be objective and person-centred (see the other person's view). Identify any risks that cannot be easily solved. Brainstorm any possible controls that could be used to mitigate/alleviate/reduce the risk from each person's perspective. Establish who needs to be involved and document their input (e.g. Doctor, Allied Health, other).

AGREE the outcome – Establish agreed issues and concerns and list them/document them in this form. Establish and document where each person disagrees. Develop an agreed shared risk plan with actions going forward. Set a review timeframe and document what worked well and what raised further concerns. File or scan this document into the plan.

Risk Assessment (using the above risk decision tool)
1. What is the risk from the Client (or support network's) point of view?
2. What is the risk from {org.name}'s point of view?
3. What aspects of the risk do the Client (or support network) and {org.name} agree on?
4. What aspects of the risk do the Client (or support network) and {org.name} disagree on?
5. If other people have been involved in the discussion (Doctor, Allied Health, Manager, Family/Representative etc) what is their view on the risk?
6. Following discussion what has been agreed between the Client (or family) and {org.name}.
7. Following agreement as above, how will it be monitored and when will it be reviewed?	Monitoring strategy
