PURPOSE AT A GLANCE

This policy explains how [REDACTED] keeps participant money and property secure and makes sure each participant uses their own money and property as they decide — with clear record-keeping wherever [REDACTED] has access to a participant's funds, and safeguards against financial abuse.

1. Purpose and scope

This policy supports [REDACTED] to apply the Participant Money and Property NDIS Practice Standards. It applies to all services and supports delivered by [REDACTED] and to all employees, contractors and volunteers (Workers), who must take full responsibility for understanding and following it. It should be read alongside the related documents in the final section and the corresponding procedures in the Policy Register.

2. Policy aims

[REDACTED] is committed to ensuring that:

- participant money and property is secure and each participant uses their own money and property as they determine;
- where [REDACTED] has access to a participant's money or property, processes to manage, protect and account for it are developed, applied, reviewed and communicated, and it is only used with the participant's consent and for the intended purpose; and
- participants are supported to access and spend their own money as they determine, and are not given financial advice beyond what their plan reasonably requires.

3. Our commitments

[REDACTED] treats personal financial information confidentially under the Privacy and Dignity Policy, and only uses a participant's money or property with their consent and for the purposes they intend.

Where [REDACTED] has access to a participant's money or property, it: encourages the participant to take ownership of their own money and property; encourages responsible spending but ultimately as the participant determines (except where a purchase would endanger safety or is illegal); requires workers to refer any concerns about misuse or inappropriate spending to the Principal; monitors changing support needs in financial and property matters; and makes every effort to ensure money, cards and valuables are carried and stored safely.

[REDACTED] must never borrow, take or accept gifts of money from a participant, and must not give financial or investment advice. Where financial abuse is suspected, [REDACTED] acts under the Preventing and Responding to Violence, Abuse, Neglect, Exploitation and Discrimination Policy and supports the participant to access legal or advocacy services.

4. Where support with money is provided

If, during intake or support planning, it is identified that a participant needs support to manage their money or property, [REDACTED] obtains the participant's written consent, records what support will be provided, and keeps clear records of transactions — including receipts, an inventory of significant purchases, and reconciliation using the Client Cash Reconciliation form. Workers handling cards and PINs follow the procedures in this policy to protect the participant's security and money. Payments to [REDACTED] for its services are made strictly in accordance with the participant's Services Agreement and NDIS rules.

5. Recognising financial abuse

Workers watch for indicators of financial abuse — no access to or unwarranted restrictions on personal funds; missing or incomplete records of expenditure; no inventory of significant purchases; a person controlling the finances without legal authority; misappropriation of money, valuables or property; forced changes to a will; persistent failure to produce receipts; unusual or inappropriate purchases; insufficient money to meet normal expenses; and a person persistently denied outings or activities for lack of funds — and report them.
