4. Contacting the NDIS Commission

You can contact the NDIS Quality and Safeguards Commission at any time — before, during or after raising a concern with us. The Commission can take complaints about supports or services that were not safe and respectful, or not delivered to an appropriate standard. Anonymous complaints are accepted.

- Phone 1800 035 544 (free from landlines) or TTY 133 677 — interpreters can be arranged
- National Relay Service, then ask for 1800 035 544
- Online at ndiscommission.gov.au/about/complaints

5. Your right to an advocate

You may seek support from a family member, friend or independent advocate when making a complaint. If you would like an advocate or representative involved, let us know and we will help arrange it.
